MORE RECORDS GO BY THE BOARD AT STADIUM MEET

A Few Living Reasons Why the U. S. Should Win Olympics

Charles Brashers (at extreme left) twice broke the world's record in the 100-metre hurdles. Taylor, at right, smashed the world's record by topping the hurdles in 22 seconds. At right—Harry Hubbard, negro athlete of the University of Michigan, who jumped 25 feet 4 inches in the running broad jump.

"Sluggo" Walters are sometimes sluggish. But this Walters offhand is shown running like a Spring rabbit down a mountain side. He ran the 800 metres in 32 8-10 seconds, which is 1.3 of a second better than the previous American record for the distance. To Walters' left is U. B. Richardson. The inset is that of Frank Hussey, the wonder athlete of Stuyvesant, N. Y. High School.

WET TRACK BOTHERS ATHLETES

The rain, which began to fall at 10:30, was a real nuisance to the athletes. The track was so wet that the runners had to be careful not to slip. The hurdles were also a problem, as they were so wet that the runners had to be careful not to slip. The rain was a real nuisance to the athletes.

"Jake" Driscoll Fails in Trials

There was general disappointment when Jake Driscoll of the B. A. V. failed to qualify in the first heat of the 100 metres race. Jake was well in from the pole at the start. He was forced out side and trailed the field down the back stretch. A most unusual position for the popular and brilliant Jake.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

THE stock market is going up because money is coming down. That's all.

So declares the president of one of our business organizations.

True, but not the whole truth. This man has been emphasizing for some time that pessimism was being carried too far both in business and in Wall Street. The general level of prices has been lowered, and so have quotation. Almost everybody has an ear for bad news but not for favorable news. Yet conditions and prospects are distinctly favorable in many respects.

Whether this man's forecast is correct, the market will prove more than a flash in the pan, no man can forecast the future. This, however can be said:

If the country is to enjoy some what better times during the second half of 1924, it will be entirely logical for the first half of 1925 to be a period of relative calm. It is the traditional duty of the stock market to forecast the future. This change in the business situation.

Therefore, it would be rash to continue to forecast a decline in the market is going up because money is coming down. This is not the only reason for the rise. There may be other reasons.

There is too little rather than too much sentiment in business.

The stock market is not a mere ring of what is probably a unique organization, namely, the stock exchange. It is a part of the business of the country. Every six months a hundred million people who received their training in whole or in part with the famous West business organization, and who are in an informal, intimate clubby way of the stock market, are now lovingly renewing old friendships and recounting experiences of earlier times. Should such a situation be forgot and never brought to mind?

So the Westinghouse follows again the old story. It is not the only reason for the rise. There may be other reasons.

In talking to some of our very large enterprises are headed by engineers.

I noticed the explanation was not because too many engineers consider their interest and their studies to material and machinery and not extend their interest and studies to man, to human nature.

It is a long time since any Wall Street man has said that the stock

is coming down. This is not the only reason for the rise. There may be other reasons.

"We believe that present conditions are favorable to advanced investment in standard

American securities."

Not only is this old-fashioned household name of the large and most influential both in New York and Boston, but the New Yorker, and the New York Times, enjoys the reputation of being an excessively keen judge of investment and investment conditions, will be able to make an intelligent choice with the strongest backing financial leaders in this city.

The morning the market was weak, and the market was
